

Dear students,

Following the decisions of the Teaching Council and the Dean's Board, as well as the Management Board of the Studies in English language, we inform you that:

1. Online teaching will be ended on May 15th, 2020
2. There are no make ups for the period after March 16th, all classes are recognized as attended.
3. Make ups for all the classes missed before the state of emergency introduction (March 16th) will be held in the week of May 11-15. The course directors will inform you about the assignments that you need to finish before the June examination period. The payment for these make ups will be possible up to the beginning of the June examination period
4. There are no colloquia. The colloquia which have not been organized are recognized as attended and passed with maximum number of points
5. Pre-exam obligations carry 30 points maximum and are formed based on points obtained before the declaration of state of emergency and introduction of online platform classes
6. There are no practical exams
7. All exams will be held in the form of tests, as usual
8. Tests will be held in accordance with epidemiologic measures
9. Semester certification is not required at the moment, its date will be announced later, and in time. It will be allowed to attend the exam without semester certification
10. The second installment of the scholarship (which was due until March 1st) must be paid until May 17th. It will not be possible to apply for the exam if the payment has not been made. If any students have problems with the payment because of some objective reasons, please send the formal request for the delay of the payment to email: biljana.buljugic@med.bg.ac.rs, as soon as possible.
